HOW TO TELL IF YOUR BABY IS GETTING ENOUGH MILK:

Every mother-baby pair is different! That makes it hard to say exactly how your baby should be eating but here are some guidelines.

In the first few days, your baby is getting rich, yellow colostrum (first milk). This is all your baby needs. Here are some ways to make sure your baby is getting enough milk:

In the first 24-48 hours,

- attempt to breastfeed whenever your baby is awake, or every 3 hours.
- Practice skin-to-skin care as much as possible.
- It is common for newborns to “cluster feed” (need to be breastfeeding very frequently) for a daily 4-6 hour stretch, often followed by a long period of sleep. This is normal behavior and helps stimulate an ample milk supply as your baby becomes an expert at latching and removing milk.

In days 3 to 5 (48 to 120 hours after the baby was born):

- Breastfeed at least 8 or more times in 24 hours.
- At least 3-4 wet diapers per day by day 3 of life
- The normal change in stools over the first 2-5 days of life: meconium (dark green, tarry) to transitional stools (lighter green or brown) to true breastmilk stools (yellow, seedy, or loose). The number of stools will increase each day.

After 3-5 days, when your milk increases, you will also notice:

- Your breasts feel full before a feeding and softer afterward,
- A letdown sensation or milk dripping from the other breast,
- You can hear your baby swallow,
- You can see milk in your baby's mouth,
- The processed product (stool!) coming out the other end!

After the first week, your baby should:

- Breastfeed at least 8-12 times in 24 hours (every 2-3 hrs, “cluster feeding” periods are normal)
- Breastfeed about 10-20 minutes at each feeding
- Be happy during and after a feeding
- Gain about 4-7 oz per week (after a small weight loss the first week)
- Return to birth weight by 2 weeks of age
- Have 6 or more pale colored, wet diapers in 24 hours
- Have 4-12 stools in 24 hours
- Be alert and bright-eyed for several periods each day

Call your baby's doctor if:

- Your infant sucks only briefly, very softly or irregularly
- Your baby is very jaundiced (yellow) and getting more yellow
- You have severe, constant nipple pain
- Your baby fights the breast or cries after a minute or two
- Your baby has fewer than 6 wet diapers a day
- Your baby has little or no stool, or has dark green mucus stools
- Your baby seems weak, tired, or not interested in feeding

FIVE REASONS TO ASK FOR HELP

from an International Board
Certified Lactation Consultant

feeding hurts

you dread feeding
because of pain or fear

you are concerned about your milk supply

your baby does not seem satisfied

you are worried about your or your baby's wellbeing

You are not alone. We are here to support you.

WHEN DO I CALL A LACTATION CONSULTANT?

Asking for help is a sign of strength, be brave enough to do it.

Lactation consultants are vital members of your prenatal and postnatal healthcare team. They're board-certified and trained professionals who teach new parents how to breastfeed. They are often nurses, dietitians, doctors, or feeding professionals. Lactation consultants can assess, diagnose, and treat many breastfeeding issues.

You should call a lactation consultant if:

- Poor weight gain.
 - Your lactation consultant will gather information from you and do a weighted feed, weighing your baby before and after a feeding to determine how much milk they took in.
- Painful latch.
 - If you are experiencing sore, cracked or bleeding nipples, know that it doesn't have to be that way.
- Breast or nipple infections.
 - You can overcome these with treatment and support from your provider and a lactation consultant.
- Fussiness at the breast or breastfeeding refusal.
 - A lactation consultant can identify what's going on — perhaps it's a slow or overactive letdown, a latch or positioning that needs improvement or a case of infant reflux.
- Clogged ducts, engorgement or overactive letdown.
 - Your lactation consultant can give you tips on how to prevent clogs and relieve discomfort.
- Preparing to go back to work or school.
 - A lactation consultant can help you prepare and navigate these changes while maintaining your supply and breastfeeding relationship.
- Infants with medical issues or special feeding needs.
 - Multiples or babies born premature, or those with medical issues such as jaundice, tongue or lip ties, cleft lip or cleft palate, can benefit from extra support for breastfeeding and pumping.

Breastfeeding Rights Information

BREASTFEED ANYWHERE, ANYTIME

The law supports breastfeeding parents

A lactating parent may breastfeed their child in any location, public or private, where the parent and child are authorized to be present. (Cal. Civil Code § 43.3.)

A breastfeeding mother may postpone jury duty for as long as they are breastfeeding by indicating that they are breastfeeding on the jury summons form. (Cal. Civ. Proc. Code § 210.5; Cal. Rules of Court, rule 2.1006.)

Under the Affordable Care Act, generally preventive care such as breastfeeding support, supplies, and counseling must be covered by health plans with no cost sharing. (www.hrsa.gov/womensguidelines/.)

- Breast pumps and supplies that assist lactation are tax deductible medical expenses. (www.irs.gov.)

Hospitals must provide information on where to receive breastfeeding education or make available a breastfeeding consultant. (Cal. Health & Safety Code §§ 123360, 123365.)

The procurement, processing, distribution or use of human milk for the purpose of human consumption is considered to be a service, not the sale of human milk. (Cal. Health & Safety Code § 1647.)

All public and charter schools must provide lactating students with a private, secure room with an electric outlet and a place to safely store expressed breast milk. (Cal. Education Code § 222.)

Lactating people are entitled to full and equal accommodations, advantages, facilities, privileges, or services in all businesses. (Cal. Civil Code §§ 51-53.)

Advocate for yourself and other breastfeeding parents.

Breastfeeding Rights Information

BREASTFEEDING PARENTS IN THE WORKPLACE

It is unlawful for an employer to discriminate against someone based on sex, which includes because of breastfeeding. (Cal. Gov't Code § 12921(a), § 12926(r)(1)(c).)

Employers must provide a clean, safe, and private room that contains a place to sit, a shelf or table to place a breast pump and other items, and access to electricity. The room must be near the employee's work area and cannot be a bathroom. (Cal. Labor Code § 1031.)

Employers must provide lactating employees with access to a refrigerator or other cooling device and sink with running water. (Cal. Labor Code § 1031.)

Employers must provide a reasonable amount of break time for a lactating employee to express breast milk. (Cal. Labor Code § 1030.)

Lactating parents may request accommodations from their employers, if needed. Typically lactation is not a disabling condition requiring disability leave, but some people may need to be transferred to a less strenuous or hazardous position or need other reasonable accommodations. (2 CCR § 11035(d).)

An employee may take pregnancy disability leave for any medically recognized physical or mental condition related to pregnancy or childbirth, including lactation-related medical conditions such as mastitis. (2 CCR § 11035(u).)

Employers must implement a policy that provides a process by which their employees can request lactation accommodations, and includes the employee's right to file a complaint if their rights have been violated. (Cal. Labor Code §§ 1030 - 1034.)

The San Diego County Breastfeeding Coalition

About Us

The San Diego County Breastfeeding Coalition (SDCBC) stands as a beacon of support and advocacy, tirelessly working to uplift families across our community since its establishment in 1994. As a 501c3 non-profit organization, our commitment is unwavering towards fostering the health and wellbeing of San Diego residents through the promotion and protection of breastfeeding.

At SDCBC, our mission resonates through every initiative we undertake: to improve the lives of families by championing breastfeeding through comprehensive education, extensive outreach, resolute advocacy, and compassionate service. We believe that breastfeeding is not only a fundamental aspect of maternal and infant health but also a vital component of community wellbeing.

What sets SDCBC apart is our ability to unite a diverse array of stakeholders – from healthcare providers to agencies, organizations, families, and passionate individuals – all sharing a common goal: to make breastfeeding accessible and achievable for every family in San Diego County. Through collaboration, innovation, and a steadfast commitment to inclusivity, we strive to create a supportive environment where every parent feels empowered on their breastfeeding journey.

Together, let us continue to nurture a community where breastfeeding is celebrated, supported, and embraced as a cornerstone of healthy living. Join us in our mission as we pave the way towards a brighter, healthier future for generations to come.
